The River Wey
AND THE NATIONAL TRUST

Established as a commercial waterway in 1651 with an extension to Godalming built in 1760, the River Wey was used to transport a variety of goods during its working lifetime including gunpowder used in the Napoleonic Wars.

Mr. Harry Stevens donated the River Wey Navigation to the National Trust in 1964 and it is now firmly established as one of the most beautiful and picturesque waterways to be enjoyed in Britain.

The National Trust ensures that this lovely waterway will be kept and preserved for future generations.

For more details of the history of the River Wey or to join the National Trust, write to National Trust, Dapdune Lea, Wharf Road, Guildford, GU1 4RR.

(Further details are available on request from Guilford Boathouse.) Whichever route you choose you will be assured of a relaxing cruise through some of the most beautiful countryside in southern England.

canals and rivers weave for

O

N A NARROWBOAT you can enjoy a waterborne journey of countless delights that introduces new aspects to familiar places day after interesting day.

A BOATING HOLIDAY IS PRIZED for its tranquillity, you can also opt for a dash of excitement depending on which waterway you choose. The Leeds and Liverpool Canal, for example, makes a dramatic ascent of the Pennines using lock 'staircases' – one of which is the famous Bingley Five Rise, while the Peak Forest Canal on the Cheshire Ring descends, by a flight of locks, an astonishing 214 feet in one mile.

LOCKS AREN'T THE ONLY EXCITEMENTS IN STORE. You can admire great feats of engineering such as Thomas Telford's Shropshire Union Canal; the Barton Swing Aqueduct across the Manchester Ship Canal; the 370 yard tunnel along the Monmouth & Brecon Canal – the list of fascinating things to see and experience is endless.

THE BEAUTY OF THESE HOLIDAYS is that, whatever your interests, there's such a variety of scenery and wealth of places to explore. One day you can be cruising through remote rural landscapes, the next through the heart of a city such as Manchester and there are always opportunities for pursuits such as fishing, cycling, wildlife rambles, visits to castles, stately homes, museums and historic towns.

HOSEASONS' HOLIDAY CHOICES offer Yorkshire's waterways including the Trans-Pennine Link, the Shropshire Union Canal; the ever-interesting Cheshire Ring; the Heart of England canal network stretching from Tewkesbury north to Stafford; the Ashby, Coventry, Oxford and Grand Union Canals; the rivers Severn and Avon where wide-beam cruisers are available, the peaceful Kennet & Avon and in Wales the spectacular Monmouth & Brecon Canal and the Llangollen Canal.

CRUISE THE SPECTACULAR MONMOUTH & BRECON CANAL

33 MILES OF UNSPOILT COUNTRYSIDE. Constructed in 1812, the Brecknock and Abergavenny Canal as it was then called, joined the town of Brecon to the sea at Newport. Today, better known as the Monmouth and Brecon Canal, 33 miles are navigable from Brecon to Pontypool through some of the most beautiful scenery and charming villages in South Wales. Situated almost entirely within the Brecon Beacons National Park it has six locks, one 370 yard tunnel, an aqueduct over the River Usk, and an abundance of wildlife. You can enjoy excellent meals in the local pubs and hotels, most catering for children.

THERE'S GOOD COURSE FISHING in the canal and we can provide you with the necessary British Waterways permit. Trout can be caught in local lakes and reservoirs; permits available from Welsh Water. ABOUT TWO MILES PER HOUR is the average cruising speed (this canal cannot be rushed), so you will need a week at least to explore and enjoy this beautiful area fully. THERE ARE MANY interesting walks and cycle rides to be made along the canal, and on board each boat is a small library of books on the history of the canal, natural history of the area and places of interest to help you enjoy your holiday more fully.

SHROPSHIRE UNION CANAL

ENGINEERED BY THE MASTER CRAFTSMAN THOMAS TELFORD as a new short route from the Midlands to the Mersey, the Shropshire Union was the last great main line of the canal era. Telford achieved this by building a new narrow canal for Autherley Junction, near Wolverhampton, to join the old wide locked Chester Canal at Nantwich.

NOW AFFECTIONATELY KNOWN as 'the Shroppie', it is a waterway of embankments, with wide vistas towards the Welsh border, and of deep, tree covered cuttings.

DOWN TO NANTWICH the narrow locks are generally grouped in easy to work flights, such as Tyley, Adderley and Audlem. On the older Chester section you can share the water barge locks with other boats. Descending the rock-hewn chambers of Chester's Northgate staircase - beneath the ancient city walls.

ON THE SOUTHERN PART of the Shroppie you will want to pause at canalside settlements such as Brewwood, Gnosall, Norbury Junction, Market Drayton and Audlem: all places of great character and interest. The Cheshire town of Nantwich is well known for its black and white buildings, and of course the Roman city of Chester is world famous as a tourist centre.

THE TERMINUS OF THE SHROPPIE at Ellesmere Port is the home of one of Britain's major attractions, the ever-expanding National Waterways Museum.

THINGS TO SEE

- Telford's Aqueduct at Stretton.
- Market Drayton (Home of Gingerbread). 700 year old Wednesday street market.
- Nantwich. Delightful old Cheshire town. Many historic buildings. Museum of cheese and salt. Stapley Water Gardens.
- Chester, walled Roman city with world famous shops. Visitor Centre. Zoo.
- Ellesmere Port and National Waterways Museum.

YORKSHIRE WATERWAYS

THE TRANS-PENNINE LINK between the canals of Lancashire and the river navigations of Yorkshire is the superb 127 mile Leeds and Liverpool Canal. A wide locked waterway, it ascends dramatically in a broad north-eastern sweep through the foothills and across England's backbone, to descend through the valley of the River Aire to Leeds.

NEGOTIATING THESE BEAUTIFUL HILLS, with their extensive panoramic views, the L. and L's locks are often grouped into staircases of two or more locks. One of these is a true wonder of the waterways - the famous Bingley Five Rise.

MOUNTAINS, DALES, MOORLAND and woods occasionally rub shoulders with industry, especially as you pass through the textile towns of Blackburn, Burnley and Leeds, and these old industrial areas add history and interest to your holiday.

FROM WAKEFIELD the Calder & Hebble Navigation again takes you westward and upward into the Pennines, following the Calder Valley to Sowerby Bridge.

ALTHOUGH THERE IS SOME INDUSTRY at the lower end, moor and parkland and Pennine stone architecture surround the Calder & Hebble on its route into the hills.

THINGS TO SEE

- Rufford Old Hall. • Wigan Pier.
- Haigh Hall. • Skipton Castle.
- EUREKA! Halifax.
- Lewis Textile Museum, Blackburn.
- The Weaver's Triangle, Burnley.
