North Penn S Gaugers

Model Railroad Club

Who are the North Penn S Gaugers?

The North Penn S Gaugers are a diverse group of model train enthusiasts formed in 1998. Our interests range from old American Flyer trains through modern 1/64th (S) scale equipment. We operate a portable S gauge layout for the enjoyment and education of the public several times a year. Our membership is primarily from Southeastern Pennsylvania including the Lehigh Valley, but anyone interested in S Gauge trains is encouraged to join.

We hold membership meetings nine months of the year at our club house located at Advanced Living Communities, 1292 Allentown Rd, Lansdale, PA 19446 and periodic work sessions as needed to maintain or update the layout. At these sessions our members teach their skills to other club members.

Our layout is portable & modular.

Modular construction of our portable layout allows our display layout to vary in size to fit any area from 10 x 14 feet to 24 x 34 feet. Our track and selectable power controls allow operation of our trains to run both conventional AC powered and DCC remote controlled equipment. The large size of our portable layout allows members who do not have a personal layout, or are limited to a small layout, the opportunity to operate on a large scenic layout. However, you do not need to own trains to participate. The club owns trains that the members can operate. The club owns the layout and all power controls. The maintenance and updating of the layout is divided into committees. Members are encouraged to be active on one or more committees.

The North Penn S Gaugers have been invited to exhibit their layouts at numerous venues including Greenberg Train Shows, National Association of S Gaugers conventions, libraries, retirement communities and fairs.
