

Climate Change & the Military

Copenhagen and beyond

Military Advisory Council (MAC)

The original IES “Military Advisory Council” was a group of 10 serving and retired military officers who are committed to stressing their concerns about the security implications of climate change and to promoting a positive role of the military worldwide to help address the challenge of climate change.

Download the First MAC Statement

29 October 2009

The group has since evolved into the Global Military Advisory Council on Climate Change (GMACCC) which currently involves 19 individual members and 8 institutional members in 13 countries in Asia, Europe, North America and South America: