

A Searchable Reference List Of Documents, Books and Collections That are held by Archives: Wigan & Leigh

Compiled in partnership with Archives: Wigan & Leigh and Wigan Local History and Heritage Society volunteers. (not an officially published WMBC document)

This document is intended to be an aid to researchers and staff alike. It is a compilation of several listings and indexes of archival collections which have accumulated over several years. This is meant as an aid or pointer, not a guarantee. It is not intended to be a substitute for staff assistance, but to save researchers' time by giving an initial indication as to whether the archives service holds the desired material. As this list does not comprise all of the Archive's holdings, researchers are always encouraged to follow up with the team, by emailing archives@wigan.gov.uk.

As this document is made up of several separate finding aids, page numbers and indexes are not valid.

To search:

Use the keys

[Ctrl]+[F]. (Windows)

[Command]+[F] (Apple)

Then scroll through the findings to see if they are relative to your requirements.

e.g. If you search [x-ray], you will find a reference of 'HR' (which = Hospital Records) at the top of that page and an entry that shows 'Bills of Quantities and Specifications' for the 'X-Ray Department 1925'

There are over 500 pages of data available. Please allow a few moments for the search to find all occurrences. Try to use a less common single search word or use specific search words. If you searched on [Wigan] you would get 4,749 results! If you searched on [Wigan Town Hall] you would get 7 occurrences.

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

Records are listed, by standard archival practice, according to their administrative origin and importance rather than according to subject. For each class of records readers will find a reference that uses letters or letters and numbers. For most of these references there is a more detailed catalogue or list on the open shelves in the Archives search room. Only the main items in each class are listed here. The best way to find a particular document, therefore, is to study the catalogues in person. Many early records which some readers may find daunting at first, have been transcribed or summarised in calendars, and these too are available on the open shelves. In addition, cross-referencing to the analytical lists is provided in card-indexes arranged by place, name and subject.

The archivist is happy to answer more general requests for records, and enquiries about research projects, either in person, by post or telephone. Also welcome is any information concerning the existence of local records that may be in danger of destruction or which are stored in unsuitable conditions. Fresh deposits are being received all the time, and so exclusion from this Guide does not necessarily mean that material does not exist. Notable accessions are often described in the Heritage Service's regular magazine Past Forward.

Registration of motor vehicles was introduced under the 1903 Motor Car Act, which designated county councils and county boroughs as the registration and licensing authorities. # OFFICIAL RECORDS: LOCAL GOVERNMENT

These comprise the archives of Wigan Metropolitan Borough Council's predecessors in local government up to 1974 and of the civil townships and parish councils.

1. WIGAN BOROUGH:

Wigan was incorporated as a borough by Henry III in 1246, and subsequent charters confirmed and extended the borough's privileges. Before 1835 Wigan was effectively governed by the manorial court leet, apart from a brief period (1685-88) when a Common Council met under the constitution prescribed by James II's charter. Up to 1860 the manorial lordship belonged to the rectors of Wigan, who since the Reformation have been resident incumbents of the parish. The borough privileges were held by the rectors from the crown and granted by them to the mayor and burgesses. The ancient borough constitution was ended in 1835 by the Municipal Corporations Act which, as in many other towns, established an elected council. In 1888 Wigan became a county borough. The boundary was extended to include Pemberton Urban District in 1904, and in 1974 the borough was combined with Leigh Municipal Borough, eleven urban districts and one rural district to form the present Metropolitan Borough.

Court Records:

Court Leet: rolls:	1626-1834
--------------------	-----------

AB/CL

The manorial court was normally held at Easter and Michaelmas, the mayor presiding as steward. Disputes between the corporation and rector led to an agreement in 1619 under which the Michaelmas Leet, the St. Luke's fair, the Friday market and the Court of Pleas (see below) were awarded to the corporation, the rector retaining the Easter Leet, the Ascension Day fair, the Monday market and jurisdiction over his own household and servants. In 1664 a further arbitration decided that all the rector's manorial rights should be leased to the corporation for £3. 6s. 8d. per annum. The manorial rights were finally purchased outright in 1860.

The extant rolls record administrative and judicial business. The former include petitions of both Wiganers and 'foreigners' to be allowed to carry on a particular trade or activity, or against the activities of others, the election of borough officials, and the names of burgesses of the borough. The judicial business covers presentments for assault, slander, trespass, nuisance etc.

N.B. Calendars available in search room for all rolls.

Court of Common Pleas or King's Pleas: rolls:	1616-1781

AB/KP

Wigan was one of five Lancashire towns exercising jurisdiction through a borough court (as distinct from a manorial court), the jurisdiction in Wigan being in cases of debt over £2. However, there was evidently a certain amount of overlap between this court and the Court Leet judging by the type of cases heard, with nuisances, assaults and trade disputes all occurring in the Common Pleas. Administrative business also includes lists of burgesses, accounts for fairs and tolls, and accounts for church and poor rates.

2. LEIGH BOROUGH:

MB/Lei

Leigh was granted the status of a municipal borough in 1899. Prior to that a Local Board of Health had been established in 1863 for each of the constituent townships - Bedford, Pennington and Westleigh. In 1875 these were amalgamated to make up the Leigh Local Board, which under the 1894 Local Government Act became Leigh Urban District. This in turn was superseded by the Borough. The archives of the borough's predecessors are all listed here.

N.B. Some records, especially committee minutes, were continued by the successor authorities.

3. TOWNSHIPS:

These are archives of the civil townships or vestries that administered local government within the larger parishes, although churchwardens' records are often found amongst them. The vestries lost their powers during the 19th century to new and larger units of local government such as the Boards of Guardians, Local Boards of Health (and their successors the district councils), and from 1894 the civil parish councils and meetings. Wigan township was already governed as a borough.

Cf. CHURCH RECORDS: D/P for township archives deposited with parish records.

1. BOARDS OF GUARDIANS OF THE POOR:

Boards of Guardians were established under the 'New Poor Law' of 1834. Responsibility for administering poor relief, maintaining workhouses and carrying out other functions was removed from the township overseers and transferred to the Guardians, whose work was supervised by a new government department, the Poor Law Commissioners. The old townships were grouped for this purpose into Poor Law Unions. The present Wigan Metropolitan area was covered by two of these, Wigan and Leigh, which were both established in 1837. Boards of Guardians were abolished by the Local Government Act of 1929, and were succeeded by the Public Assistance Committees (see below).

For records of poor relief administered by overseers of the poor see OFFICIAL RECORDS: LOCAL GOVERNMENT and CHURCH RECORDS.

FAMILY AND ESTATE PAPERS

This section includes the major archives of landed families and their estates. For lesser deposits see SOLICITORS' and MISCELLANEOUS RECORDS.

1. INCE ANDERTON OF INCE AND EUXTON:

D/D An

By the marriage of 1769 of William Anderton of Euxton to Frances Sobieski, heiress of Christopher Ince of Ince Hall, the Ince muniments came into the Anderton family. William was succeeded in 1811 by his son William, who took the name Ince Anderton and purchased the manor of Euxton, although the Andertons had resided there from the late 15th century. The archive comprises 81 bundles of deeds and papers dated between 1230 and c. 1900. These bundles are largely artificial, but a rough calendar produced in the 1930's is available in the search room.

Miscellaneous Manuscript Portfolios

MMP

This series of artificial collections of small groups of papers, single items and ephemera was commenced at Wigan Reference Library and continued by the Record Office. Its scope and contents are too miscellaneous for any summary to be given here, but catalogues and indexes (apart from more recent accessions) are available in the search room. The main types of documents represented are deeds and legal papers, correspondence, literary papers, and political, official and theatrical posters and handbills.

EDWARD HALL COLLECTION

This artificial collection of diaries, journals, letter-books and miscellaneous papers was donated in stages from 1947 by Edward Hall (b. 1898), a dealer and collector of MSS. and books. Hall married Emily Littler of Wigan, and discovered the surviving MSS. of Ellen Weeton (see below) in a bookshop on Wallgate in 1925.

It comprises mainly original MSS. (some items are in modern transcript form), and most of the documents have not been published. A notable exception is the diaries of Ellen Weeton, all but one of whose extant MSS. are in the present collection (see D/DZ EHC 165). Only a few of the items relate to the Wigan area or even the north west, the authors originating from all parts of the country and a variety of social backgrounds.

It is only possible to list here some of the important items: a more comprehensive catalogue is available in the search room.

N.B. Some items in the collection have been microfilmed, and readers are requested to use the film in preference to the original.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Wigan Heritage Service maintains one of the most extensive collections of photographs relating to a local area in the north west. Most of the images are available for study, reproduction and publication. No attempt is made here to list the subjects or places covered, but notable collections include the extant archive of amateur photographer William Wickham (1849-1929), a selection of whose images is published in Wigan Through Wickham's Window (1989); photographs of engineering products of local companies such as Harrison McGregor, Walker Brothers and Worsley Mesnes Ironworks; the local history collection of Cyril Ward; original plates by local professional photographers and extensive series of family and school photographs. Some of the images relate to archive series listed above, but many have been donated or loaned for copying by private individuals. Photocopied files of part of the collection are available for reference at The History Shop and Leigh Local History Library. Otherwise enquiries should be directed to the Senior Technician at the Archives Service, Leigh Town Hall (tel. 01942-404432).

D/DZ A55 These records were donated by Mr. G. Clapperton of Laburnum Mill, Atherton. His father had been closely associated with the Howe Bridge Mills of the Howe Bridge Cotton Spinning Company, and he was behind the refloating of the company as the Howe Bridge Cotton Spinning Co. (1920) Ltd.

In 1929, the company, along with many others, was amalgamated into a combine of mills in the Leigh, Manchester and Bolton areas known as Combined Egyptian Mills, later known as Combined English Mills, whose headquarters was in Atherton. In the 1960's this combine was taken over by Viyella International, later Carrington Viyella.

The following records were kept at Laburnum Mill, as were many records of the constituent companies of Carrington Viyella; the latter collection has been transferred to the Lancashire Record Office.
