Exercise 7

Powl and Mark support the football club Plymouth Argyle. Today they're getting ready to attend a game in the Home Park stadium. But they're late. All is hectic bustle.

Elen:

Mark, hurry up! It's not just a short trip. You have to reckon with the traffic too. Where's Powl?

Mark:

Upstairs. In the study. The car boot was full of papers. Belonging to the big trial he's involved in. He's taken them out. That will save fuel all the way there and back.

Elen:

And keep the things secure. A pity he didn't leave them in a much more suitable place. Safely in his office.

Mark:

Where's my supporters scarf? Have you seen it anywhere?

Elen:

On the peg by the front door. You put it there so you'd remember it.

Mark:

So I did! And here comes Dad.

Elen:

Powl, go carefully. It's only a football match. You shouldn't be in a dangerous rush.

Powl:

No need to worry. There's still plenty of time without any crazy driving. Come on, Mark, quick as you can. See you, sweetie! We'll be back for supper.
