

Restoring the Power of Conscious Creation

by Pedro Lima

The Root of Disconnection

An ego-based society sustains itself by avoiding self-awareness. It convinces the collective that all problems originate “out there”, in governments, systems, people, and circumstances. This belief keeps humanity exiled from the inner realm of cause and consciousness effect, where true transformation begins.

Blame as the Ego's Armor

Blame and complaint are not just reactions; they are energetic egoic defense mechanisms. They shield the ego from confronting its own participation in suffering, its dishonesty, its fear of responsibility, by projecting outward, the unconscious mind maintains its illusion of innocence, avoidance, while perpetuating the same dysfunctions it condemns.

The Cycle of Ignorance

In this cycle, ignorance calls itself righteousness. The ego points fingers, unaware that what it rejects externally is merely a reflection of its own suppressed shadow. This disconnection feeds parasitic systems, religions, politics, ideologies, corporations, that thrive on fear, dependency, obedience, profit-driven greediness, moral deception and hypocrisy.

The Return to Responsibility

Awakening begins the moment the soul says, “It is not them, it is within me.” Self-responsibility is the essence of liberation. It dissolves projection, restores inner clarity, and reclaims inner power from the external illusions. Through ownership of thought, energy, and intention, the sovereign soul reclaims its creative sovereign inner authority.

“Blame sustains bondage. Self-responsibility restores inner power. When we turn inward, and integrate all parts of self, the egoic illusion dissipates through the presence of a sovereign, authentic, multilayered, multidimensional Soul.” - Pedro
