

The Collapse of False Authority and the Return of Sovereign Inner Power

by Pedro Lima

The false hierarchical, self-proclaimed authority, the liars supreme club is an architecture of insecure, self-serving “power figures” who hide behind egoic illusions, fear, codependency, superiority, and external validation.

In a society conditioned to equate worth with status, these entitled “minions” conceal their fragility behind secrecy, deception, manipulation, fear-based soulless propaganda.

They operate inside a corrupt labyrinth of fear-based indoctrination, upheld by binding laws that legitimize and normalize a parasitic, soulless framework.

The so-called “leaders” declare, impose, enforce, and dictate, while the majority observes passively, slipping into complacency, submission, and self-betrayal.

And still, the collective insists it lives in a “democracy,” convinced it is free.

This illusion persists because people cling to fear and lack the courage to transcend their indoctrinated obedience, herd mentality.

Conditioned to obey, be subservient, to comply, to silence their own intuition, the majority fear punishment more than they value self-truth, self-honor, inner knowing.

They allow themselves to become “puppets” with strings pulled by the greedy, the hollow, the parasitic soulless “minions”.

A mind disconnected from the heart is easily swayed, programmed, and controlled.

When the heart, our source of inner authority is suppressed, corrupted, or neglected through fear, unworthiness, and lack, the ego becomes both a prison and warden.

False authority stands only when the majority consents to be enslaved.
It survives through complacency, not authenticity.
Through self-betrayal, not sovereign inner truth.

Reclaiming inner authority requires standing in sovereign authenticity, refusing to compromise our authentic inner voices, soul integrity for status, rank, approval, or illusion.

True power liberates, it never dominates.

True authority arises from within, from conscious awareness, empowerment never from coercion and oppression.
