

Carved by Chaos, darkness to Reborn in sovereign truth, authenticity, Integrity

by Pedro Lima

My human journey unfolded through adversity, submerged in chaos, and the darkness projected by unhealed individuals who, triggered by my light, tried to plant seeds of fear, unworthiness, shame, guilt, scarcity, and codependency.

They sought to undermine, slander, gaslight, and diminish me so I would bend to their narcissistic, parasitic, ego-driven expectations, a life of mediocrity, lack, prideful ignorance and victimhood.

I struggled. I felt lost and alone, entangled in the shadows others projected to avoid facing themselves, but even when life brought me to my knees, I never abandoned myself. My unwavering faith, in my path, my soul, and divine justice, kept me moving forward. I refused to stay down, playing the victim role.

I chose to stand, starting over and over, and kept going despite the negativity, fear, obstacles, and indoctrinated false authority, ideologies, cultural beliefs, habits, dogmas, and scarcity narratives that surrounded me, shedding layer by layer to untangle myself from anyone and anything toxic to my well being.

Every mental, physical, and emotional challenge became a catalyst for transformation. Each experience taught me, strengthened me, and initiated me into deeper awareness, self-discovery.

I alchemized every karmic energy placed before me, evolving through it, ascending through it, and becoming who I was always meant to be beyond any societal indoctrinated illusions.

I now understand:
Life never happened to me. It unfolded for me.

It forged me into a “phoenix rising” from others darkness projected onto me, as also from ancestral shadows as a generational curse breaker who healed his blood family, a sovereign soul radiating his authentic essence in a world consumed by fear and falsehood.

I do not fear darkness. I see it clearly for what it is: unintegrated fragments longing for acceptance. I meet these parts with love, compassion, patience, forgiveness, and awareness.

I no longer run from my shadows; I alchemize them, not allowing others shadows to distort my Soul authenticity.

Today, I stand empowered, sovereign, present, aligned with my soul’s sacred essence, authentic, radiant, celebrating and honoring with the highest integrity my humanness, grateful for being of service to the Universe by offering to humanity what I have learned by walking through the valley of the darkness.

I found my way back home to wholeness by embracing the unknown path, guided by my inner compass, holding hands with my spirit guides, ancestors, angels, and the Universe towards truth, freedom, remembrance, inner peace and inner liberation.