

The Fall of Hollow Kings - End of False Authority

by Pedro Lima

A delusional, indoctrinated society clings to its self-betraying, codependent, and unworthy beliefs, beliefs that silence its authentic inner voice, dim its sovereign integrity, and cripple its inner authority.

In this collective trance, people grow complacent and comfortable participating, supporting, cooperating, and collaborating with their own oppression. They hand their power to false authority figures, corrupt, self-serving, parasitic individuals, upholding enslaving systems designed to deceive, surveil, coerce, and distort the collective perception of reality.

Through bureaucratic webs of lies, binding laws, rules, and dehumanizing structures, these hollow, entitled, soulless “kings and queens,” propped up by their fragile, insecure "minions" subservience, perpetuate authoritarian, oligarchical, and tyrannical ignorance. They keep the collective fearful, obedient, and ashamed, conditioned to believe these false leaders are superior or worthy of dominion.

But this entire architecture of power is rooted in one thing: A profound lack of self-love, deep-rooted unworthiness, and fragile egoic identities addicted to illusion, validation, and self-deception. And the time for these corrupt, narcissistic, hollow false rulers is up.

When anyone chooses to play “god” over others, dictating, diminishing, oppressing, or exploiting to mask their own lack of dignity, integrity, humility, and self-awareness, they inevitably face the consequences of the Universal Laws they attempted to distort.

Karma strips away every layer of illusion, status, and ego, until only the raw truth remains.

Clinging to ignorance is a choice. Karmic judgment is not.

The wheel is turning, and those who have long operated from entitlement, greed, fear, and parasitic intent and exploitation are now being confronted with what they have sown.

Divine justice does not miss.

First, they laugh, drunk on hollow pride, convinced their malicious intentions will go unnoticed.

Then, when truth arrives, they laugh no more.

We are accountable for the reality we create.

We can perform the victim narrative when karma unfolds, but we cannot escape responsibility for intentional harm, deception, or the diminishment of another’s light.

No false identity, no hierarchical title, no external role grants spiritual immunity.

You can hide in denial, delusion, and ignorance, but you cannot hide from the truth.

There is no escape from karma. It simply is as it is.
