

When the Currency of Fear Loses Its Value - The Return to Sovereign Truth

by Pedro Lima

Fear, scarcity, and codependency are the true currencies of false power within societal indoctrinated hierarchical frameworks.

Fear Is the Economy of False Authority.

People are conditioned to self-betray in exchange for the conditional illusion of acceptance, belonging, love, safety, comfort, and freedom, clinging to beliefs and habits that perpetuate self-deception, survival identities, deep-rooted unworthiness, and unresolved inner-child wounds.

The egoic hierarchical status quo, along with its false authority figures at every level of society, exists to bind and diminish authentic inner authentic sovereignty.

It undermines the courage and strength required to live guided by one's inner compass and inner knowing, coercing Souls to compromise their integrity just to play out preconceived, soulless societal scripts.

True liberation does not arise from rebellion fueled by anger, it emerges through inner remembering.

Through the reclamation of one's own inner power.

Through the return to self.

Through the remembrance of sovereign truth.

This is consciousness deprogramming.

This is Soul liberation.

A time is coming where the currency of fear loses its value, when scarcity forgets how to starve the Soul, when codependency is dissolved in the fire of Soul remembrance.

The false authorities will still sit on hollow thrones, speaking laws to empty crowds, while their echoes dissolve into dust.

People will not rise in rage, they will rise in truth.

They will not shout. They will not beg.

They will simply stop self-betraying.

“The moment humanity withdraws consent from false authority and remembers its inner sovereign authentic truth, hollow soulless empires begin collapsing from the inside out.” -
