

Hollow Thrones created by Fragmented Souls

By Pedro Lima

Mediocrity, self-petty misery, and prideful ignorant egoic entitlement consume and taint the hearts of a narcissistic, parasitic society. These fragmented, souls react with fear, judgment, and hostility toward anyone who dares to shine authentically, unapologetically, or with inner sovereign confidence.

They label, criticize, and attempt to diminish those who embody sovereignty, inner authority, and uncompromising self-alignment, but these reactions are reflections of their own inner hollowness, from their lack of inner work to take accountability for their own inner state.

This is a declaration that disrupt curated, distorted, self-victimized, and self-deceptive structures of societal delusion. It is a call to remember and reclaim your inner truth. To step fully into energetic integrity. To embody authenticity that does not bend for approval or fear.

I declare:

- I will no longer be diminished by the projections, judgments, or manipulations of fragmented souls.
- I will not compromise my inner authority for the comfort or validation of others.
- I honor my energy, my boundaries, and the sacred sovereignty of my inner world.
- I will not participate in societal narratives that glorify mediocrity, exploitation, parasitism, fear, scarcity, speculation, false hierarchies or self-victimization.
- I choose to rise above the hollow thrones of prideful entitlement, exposing them as reflections of inner emptiness rather than truth.
- I embrace the courage to shine authentically, unapologetically, and aligned with my soul's integrity.
- I will stand firm in my sovereignty, reclaiming my inner power, and living fully from inner alignment, clarity, and self-responsibility.

This is a call to liberation, a transmission of light and inner authority that dissolves illusions of external control, false hierarchies, and parasitic societal consciousness energetic attachments, and distorted, dysfunctional patterns of belief and behavior.

I am not here to appease, perform, or survive by the standards of fragmented souls.

I am here to be the embodiment of my inner truth, with the highest integrity, whole in the unapologetic sovereignty of my Soul blueprint sacred essence.