

The Architecture of Egoic Distortion

by Pedro Lima

Those who hide behind egoic victimhood or grandiose, pride-driven curated ignorance fragment themselves into roles, deceptive masks, and identities to avoid their unresolved emotional wounds.

They self-deceive and self-betray, projecting conditioned narratives, excuses, addictions, obsessions, and fear-based patterns onto others. Their intentions and actions are rooted in unworthiness, lack, and dishonesty, first with themselves, then with the world.

By outsourcing their worth to external validation and approval, they become codependent on perception, manipulating, exploiting, hoarding, and deceiving to legitimize hollow narcissistic delusions.

This avoidance of self-accountability reveals not strength, but the absence of courage, inner alignment, inner discernment, empathy, integrity, dignity, honor, authenticity and truth.

When a narcissistic society collectively curates falsehood, parasitism, mediocrity, greed, and false hierarchies, it institutionalizes spiritual hollowness.

These systems create distorted frameworks that reward self-betrayal, elevate false authority, normalize deception, sustaining soulless identity masks and petty egoic emotional manipulative mediocre games.

This is how the dysfunctional show continues: fear as culture, emptiness as power, manipulation as currency, at the cost of individual sovereignty, collective growth, and genuine authentic ascension.
