

Declaration of Inner Sovereignty

by Pedro Lima

A narcissistic society strives to dictate who, why, what, and how others should and must be, think, and express, obeying, complying, being codependent and subservient to others expectations at the cost of self-deception, and self-betrayal.

But I do not allow anyone to conditioning, or suppress my inner sovereign and authentic voice in any shape or form.

I think for myself. I stand up for myself. I am sovereign and I do not compromise my inner Authority for the sake of external clout, please, or appease others. I rely on my inner compass to make choices that are in alignment with my inner knowing, inner core values, not being swayed, or tempted by the herd validation and acceptance.

I am the co-creator of my reality. I carve my own path. I am self-validated. My Soul is not for sale.