

No false authority can override Divine Karmic Law

by Pedro Lima

Some, through prideful, egoic delusion, believe that curated hierarchies, titles, ranks, badges, roles, and false authority upheld by parasitic, manipulative, narcissistic system will grant them safe passage, protection, or spiritual immunity.

They mistake corruption disguised as order, control masked as justice, and fear dressed as safety for legitimacy.

Clinging to ignorance, superiority illusions, and control-based identity is a choice. But divine order and karmic law are not negotiable. They are not impressed by titles, nor deceived by performance.

The law of cause and effect operates regardless of belief, preference, or denial. No rank, role, or false authority grants exemption from spiritual accountability.

We are always responsible for the energetic seeds we plant, through our intentions, actions, and integrity. Spiritual discernment allows us to recognize that what we sow, we will reap. Always in divine timing.
