

Why Sovereign Truth Threatens a Hollow Society

by Pedro Lima

A narcissistic, surface-level society cannot withstand pure, raw, sovereign truth because truth dismantles the very illusions it depends on to survive.

This society clings to distortion, delusion, dysfunction, and hollowness.

It justifies fear, ignorance, scarcity, exploitation, domination, and identity fragmentation by hiding behind curated pride, rigid ideologies, dogmas, paradigms, and performative roles. It performs for approval.

It compromises its soul, its sovereign inner truth, for the sake of belonging.

It seeks acceptance through compliance.

It strives for control rather than doing the inner work.

It lies, manipulates, deceives, exploits, coerces, and hoards not to build, but to undermine and destroy anyone in their way towards climbing a parasitic hierarchy of false power, false authority, and false status.

Along the way, it collects karmic badges, titles, followers, likes, things, and hollow applause, praise, mistaking accumulation for worth, visibility for value, and dominance for truth.

It worships money, people, institutions, and clout.

It compares, competes, monitors, and polices, obsessed with what others have or lack, do or don't do.

It wears moral masks while operating in secrecy, plotting, lobbying, conspiring, and performing from a deep-rooted self-serving hypocrisy to sustain a stage consumed by mediocrity, greediness to maintain a soulless social fakeness show.

It builds frameworks rooted in fear, obedience, compliance, codependency, and subservience, rewarding self-betrayal and punishing authenticity.

At the top sits not wisdom, but emptiness, a false authority Ponzi pyramid status quo sustained by denial, deception, vanity, and collective self-deception.

This is precisely why sovereign authentic truth is avoided, denied, resisted, and rejected: because it exposes the fraud, corruption, collapses the illusion, and liberates what cannot be controlled.

“Truth doesn't beg to belong, it stands sovereign, raw, authentic, unapologetic, and the hollow structures built on fear collapse the moment it is seen.” - Pedro
