

The Architecture of Parasitic Power

by Pedro Lima

A narcissistic society is engineered to distort authenticity, sovereignty, and truth. It normalizes chaos, conflict, deception, comparison, competition, and self-betrayal, conditioning a herd that is obedient, codependent, compliant, and subservient.

Falsehood is normalized. Exploitation is rewarded. Parasitism is institutionalized. Control is reframed as order. Punishment is reframed as justice. Power is reframed as authority.

A few maintain dominance by curating hollow hierarchies and false authority positions, shielding their grandiose delusions behind laws, norms, rules, policies, and systems designed not to serve humanity but to preserve hollow entitlement, greed, and control.

Inner authority is stripped away.

Inner sovereignty is undermined.

Authentic self-expression and inner truth are sacrificed at the altar of governance.

Safety is disguised and normalized as surveillance.

Democracy is disguised and normalized as compliance.

Progress is disguised and normalized as exploitation.

Freedom is disguised and normalized as external permission.

People, places, and planetary resources are commodified to satisfy the inner emptiness of those seated in prideful, delusional ignorance, believing titles, ranks, and curated national identities grant them authority over others.

This society does not lead, it conditions.

It does not protect, it consumes.

It does not empower, it indoctrinates.

The soul is commodified to validate illusions.

Self-conditioning stories replace inner knowing.

Cultural shaming, guilt-tripping narratives, ideologies, dogmas, and fear-based belief systems are weaponized to energetically bind, extract, and control.

This is not order.

This is not safety.

This is not freedom.

This is a parasitic framework sustained by deception, dependence, and the betrayal of the self.

“A hollow, narcissistic society rewards obedience, deception, and self-betrayal; a truly sovereign society honors growth, independence, authenticity, integrity, and inner sovereignty grounded in humility and self-accountability.” – Pedro
