

Beyond the Societal Narcissistic Hierarchy of Lies

by Pedro Lima

Societal governance parasitic hollow systems indoctrinate individuals to accept the normalization of obedience and compliance as virtue, subservience and submission as order and safety.

It wraps binding energetic parasitic chains in language, hierarchical authority figures, nationalism, career, status, success, celebrities, worship of money, institutions, and people supported by distorted and dysfunctional self-serving fear-based shaming and guilt-tripping narratives that rely upon self-deception and self-betrayal for approval, belonging and acceptance. They called it “society.”

What they really built was a narcissistic parasitic soulless harvesting machine that feeds on self-doubt, unworthiness, self-victimization, harvests obedience, compliance, complacency, codependency, subservience, and survives by trying to convince sovereign beings that they are nothing without someone or a system permission.

They needed mirrors that lie, deceive, manipulate, control, exploit, and dominate. So they created hierarchies. Titles. Badges. Roles. Rankings. Artificial authorities elevated not by wisdom, integrity, dignity, honor, authenticity, and truth but by coercive dystopian corrupt illusions of having power over others.

The indoctrination begins early:

Be good. Be quiet. Fit in. Don't question. Don't feel too much. Don't see too clearly. “This is the way.”

Authenticity became a threat.

Sovereignty became “dangerous.”

Truth became “extreme.”

Because a human who trusts their inner compass cannot be governed by fear.

Parasitic systems do not create, they attach parasitic manipulative strings of control.

They latch onto identity, trauma, shame, guilt, and survival instincts.

They reward self-betrayal and dismiss, undermine, and punish integrity, independent, authentic and sovereign self-expression

Narcissistic frameworks and structures cannot relate.

They can only extract, manipulate, rank, and discard.

So they teach people to outsource worth.

To beg for validation.

To trade their soul for the illusion of safety, comfort, and approval from others.

To confuse clout with value, compliance with acceptance and love.

And when someone refuses, when someone no longer seeks approval, no longer explains themselves, no longer carries others' burdens the parasitic people and systems panics.

Because sovereignty exposes the scam.

A person who does not need permission cannot be controlled.

A person who does not choose sides cannot be weaponized.

A person who honors truth over compliance for belonging cannot be owned.

So the projections come.

The labels.

The shaming.

The gaslighting.

The plotting.

The Surveillance.

That is how you know you've exited the Narcissistic hollow delusional spell.

This path is not popular.

It is not rewarded.

It is not applauded by those who still choose to remain attached, indoctrinated.

It is quiet.

It is clean.

It is uncompromising.

It is raw.

It is a solo journey yet effective.

No saviors.

No masters.

No gurus.

No external authorities entitled to your energy.

Only discernment.

Only sacred boundaries.

Only inner alignment.

Only Authenticity.

Only Inner peace.

Only Inner Sovereignty.

You are not here to be consumed.

You are not here to perform.

You are not here to be ranked, measured, or managed.

You are here to remember.

And remembrance is the greatest threat to any parasitic narcissistic system that seeks to bind and keep you distracted, consumed by fear, scarcity, unworthiness, subservience, codependency on external approval, forgetting who you truly are beneath conditioning.
