

The Starvation of Parasitic Societal Narcissistic Curated Systems

by Pedro Lima

A parasitic, narcissistic society survives by enmeshment. It seeks out those without sacred energetic boundaries, people conditioned to appease, perform, over-give, and self-abandon because access without resistance is its primary resource of a parasitic narcissist.

This societal dynamics framework system does not thrive through creation, inner coherence, authenticity or integrity.

It thrives through falsehood, deception, betrayal, control, and manipulation, extracting emotional, energetic, psychological, and spiritual labor from others to sustain its own inner emptiness.

Parasitic people and its curated structures cannot generate life force. They leech it.

They weaponize victimhood to avoid accountability.

They curate chaos to destabilize inner clarity.

They normalize exploitation by disguising it as duty, loyalty, love, morality, or belonging.

What they offer is not authentic sovereign truth but parasitic energetic entanglement.

It does not foster genuine connections, but dependence through fear, obedience, compliance, subservience, and self-betrayal.

Parasitism and narcissism are not anomalies.

They are inevitable outcomes of a dysfunctional prideful ignorant society that systematically:

Conditions obedience over discernment.

Rewards compliance over integrity.

Indoctrinates people to outsource authority rather than embody it.

Shames self-sovereignty and boundaries as selfish, cold, or dangerous.

Confuses self-sacrifice with virtue.

Equates belonging with self-betrayal.

Commodifies identity for cultural acceptance.

At its root, narcissistic parasitism emerges from a deep-rooted fear of insignificance.

A disempowered parasitic narcissistic society creates codependent individuals who:

Lack inner authority

Fear self-responsibility

Avoid shadow integration

Depend on external validation to feel real, happy, worthy, seen, approved.

Seek control over others to regulate their inner void.

Unable to source meaning, creativity, self-love, worth, or energy from within, they attach to others to legitimize its self-denial, resistance to honestly self-reflect and take accountability for its own inner state, rather than project outwards.

Thus, narcissism is not confidence, it is compensatory curated fragmented self-fragility.

Parasitism is not strength, it is spiritual insolvency.

Sacred boundaries are lethal to parasitism.

A sovereign individual, self-aware, self-resourced, energetically coherent, offers no hooks for manipulation, no openings for guilt, no appetite for false belonging or acceptance.

Where there is inner authority:

Gaslighting fails

Shame dissolves

Control loses leverage

Exploitation starves

This is why sovereign beings are attacked, demonized, isolated, or projected upon.

They expose the parasitic narcissistic hollow system simply by not feeding it.

Parasitic narcissistic systems do not fall because they are confronted. They fall because they are no longer supplied.

The moment an individual chooses:

Self-responsibility over appeasement.

Assertive boundaries over belonging.

Self-validation, integrity over external approval.

The system loses access.

That is not rebellion.

That is self-remembrance.

That is how we reclaim inner sovereignty, and embody inner authority.

I stand tall and firm, grounded in my sovereign, authentic inner raw truth, regardless of what anyone has to say or feel about it.