

Chains of Obedience in Parasitic Narcissistic Hollow Dysfunctional Societies

by Pedro Lima

A parasitic narcissistic hollow society is built upon false authority, engineered to indoctrinate, enforce, and normalize subservience, submission, obedience, and compliance.

Within these hollow paradigms, leadership and authority are distorted, abused, and corrupted by fragile, insecure, curated, and fragmented egos, entitled, self-serving, greedy, and spiritually hollow beings who consciously mistake control for power.

The indoctrinated framework of this society is hierarchical by design: a hollow ladder of hypocrisy, moral superiority where someone is placed above others, entitled to more, shielded from questioning, and obeyed regardless of the harm their orders produce.

Authority is no longer rooted in wisdom or integrity, but in status, fear, and coercion.

This hollow social landscape is sustained through a carefully curated maze of bureaucratic laws, rules, policies, and institutions designed not to serve humanity, but to self-preserve oligarchical parasitism.

These systems exist to keep others bound, dependent, compliant, and obedient to parasitic propaganda and self-serving agendas disguised as order, security, and progress.

They demand self-betrayal as the price of participation, joining the hollow club.

They demand self-abandonment as proof of loyalty.

They demand the surrender and outsourcing of inner authority to fragile, soulless, insecure beings and their corrupt systems of control, exploitation, speculation, and domination.

In this paradigm, sovereignty, identity, and worth are reduced to external egoic constructs, culture, nationality, tax numbers, jobs, and titles made dependent on approval and validation from parasitic people and hollow systems that syphon life-force rather than nurture it.

This society, consumed by egoic, surface-level, fear-based obsessions, addictions, and attachments, normalizes punishment to legitimize coercion and oppression.

Compliance is enforced through fear, while the many consent unconsciously to being subjugated by the very puppet masters they elect and empower.

“Follow orders” is not presented as a choice.

Self-sufficiency, self-sovereignty, self-validation, self-awareness, self-accountability, and self-independence are framed as threats, especially to a herd that has grown comfortable being controlled, exploited, and enslaved by the system it serves, protects, and supports to enforce.

A docile, self-victimized, submissive herd by choice lacks the inner courage, integrity, discernment, and accountability required to confront its own inner state.

A sovereign soul does not compromise its authentic truth, creativity, honor, dignity, or integrity to appease or please anyone.

It remains grounded in its inner compass, self-sufficient, self-validated, and fully responsible for the energies it chooses to embody in each moment.

Self-independence is not a preference.

It is not a privilege.

It is a duty, a sacred responsibility to honor the soul with integrity.
