

When Self-Betrayal Becomes a Hollow Parasitic Binding Societal Contract

by Pedro Lima

False authority in a parasitic, hollow, narcissistic society demands attention, obedience, compliance, subservience, and submission to ego-based, paranoid, grandiose, delusional pride and ignorance, projecting expectations, assumptions, insecurities, and fragile, curated, fragmented false personas, identities, and roles that obsessively seek to be the center of attention while controlling narratives, trends, stories, paradigms, ideologies, and dogmas to shape the perception of others.

It is a society built on falseness: surface-level egoic attachments, obsessions, addictions, entitlement to others time and energy, and the normalization of emotional, spiritual, and energetic manipulation.

It feels entitled, reacting with resentment when others are unavailable to provide what it wants, believing, from its own self-serving, hollow, narcissistic, paranoid mind, that others owe it something.

In this hollow, petty, and bitter societal landscape, conflict, secrecy, deception, manipulation, gaslighting, blame, and judgment function as egoic coping mechanisms for survival and self-preservation, used to justify ill intent, malice, and the desire to diminish, dominate, or harm another.

Delusional, self-serving, hollow, paranoid stories are carefully curated and indoctrinated to influence, train, form, condition, and miseducate others while having the audacity to label this distortion as “education.”

This society praises, celebrates, recognizes, and rewards those who abandon themselves, those who self-betray, suppress their inner truth, and fragment their soul for the sake of pleasing, appeasing, or belonging.

At all levels, the parasitic societal status quo enforces dependency on hierarchy, superiority, ranks, and false authority figures: hollow, curated personas portraying themselves as paladins of truth, leadership wisdom, knowledge, order, justice, and progress while the majority is coerced, subjugated, and conditioned to surrender its inner authority to soulless parasitic beings who lack self-respect, self-awareness, self-love, self-honor, self-dignity, self-integrity, humility, responsibility, and self-accountability for what they project out to the Universe.

But no curated, fragmented, hollow, parasitic, enslaving story overrides divine truth, karmic law, divine will, or divine order.

No matter how delusional individuals become in their attempt to play “God” in others lives, there are no titles, ranks, money, loyal “minions”, deities, or fear-based illusions capable of shielding hollow parasitic beings from karmic consequences.

The current corrupt, hollow, fear-based system of false power and false authority sustains itself only through the agreement and consent of a self-victimized collective, comfortable, complacent, and willing to betray itself to belong to the liars “circus” hollow rank, status, and illusion.

Speculation and scamming function as currencies in a society consumed by fear of insignificance, irrelevance, and vulnerability, tainted by pettiness, bitterness, scarcity consciousness, and exploitative egoic survival mindsets.

Lying, cheating, deceiving, manipulating, coercing, controlling, dominating, and exploiting are carefully imprinted in the DNA of a distorted, dysfunctional, dystopian society that clings to pride and ignorance to legitimize falseness, normalize obedience, glorify conflict and division, and project outward what it refuses to face, integrate, accept, and take accountability within.

Time itself becomes distorted in such a society, one trapped in unresolved pain, trauma, resentment, judgment, and self-victimized herd mentality, blaming the past, fearing the future, micromanaging outcomes to soothe paranoid egoic obsessions while avoiding self-reflection, self-accountability, and the courage required to release what binds the soul from aligning with its own compass wisdom and core values.

Heart–mind coherence emerges only when a soul assumes full accountability for its mental, emotional, physical, and spiritual state, unlocking sovereign, authentic embodied presence.

The hollow, controlling, exploitative dynamics of an ego-based society are nothing more than reflections of the collective inner state; fragmented, fear-driven, pride-ridden, ignorant, and addicted to projection, judging everything and everyone to justify false narratives of separation: me versus you, right versus wrong, superior versus inferior, sustaining parasitic illusions of control while masking profound self-avoidance, self-integration and self-betrayal.

This society waits, prays, and hopes for a savior, a deity, a middleman, an external authority to rescue it from its own self-inflicted misery, mediocrity, and curated fragmented identities.

But inner peace, joy, creativity, abundance, wholeness, and fulfillment are not found outside the authentic self.

We are granted with free will to learn, grow, integrate, alchemize, expand, evolve, ascend, and transcend the illusion of duality in a world terrified of the very darkness it refuses to face.

There is no escape from truth, no matter what is believed, demanded, curated, judged or clung to within the limits of the egoic mind.

Ignorance is a choice. Self-remembrance is not.

It is a responsibility each soul carries through this human journey.

I am solely accountable for my inner state, no one else is.

I do not owe anything to anyone.

I do not depend on anyone to make me feel happy, complete, loved, worthy, or accepted.

I do not compromise my inherent sovereign, authentic truth, self-reliance, self-accountability, inner authority, self-worth, self-love, or inner peace for anyone or anything.

I prioritize myself, and I do not allow myself to be entangled with, diminished, or treated as the help, regardless of how anyone feels, thinks, says, expects or understands it.

I am not here to save anyone. I stand firm in my authentic, sovereign core Soul values and wisdom.

Reciprocity without genuine sovereign authenticity is denied access to my sacred energy and time.

I rely on my inner compass, its divine wisdom and knowing to guide me in each moment.

No one can influence, deter, manipulate, deceive, or sway me from trusting and following it.

I am the leader in my life. I am whole. I am enough. I co-create with the Universe a purposeful life.