

The Fear-Based Narcissistic Spiritual-Ignorance Consuming a Parasitic Hollow Society

by Pedro Lima

In a narcissistic, parasitic, hollow oligarchical Ponzi societal status quo, truth, honor, integrity, dignity, unity and authentic self-expression, both individually and collectively, are absent or distorted through the corrupt and hollow architecture of the current so-called “world order.”

In this hollow, desolated spiritually impoverished landscape, insecure, dishonest, deceptive, manipulative, and prideful false authority figures rise to prominence. Experts. Gurus. Masters. Holy men. Perceived powerful middlemen.

They are perceived as legitimate by a disconnected, indoctrinated, and obedient herd, a population conditioned to believe that others should dictate who they are, what they can say, what they can do, and what they should believe.

A docile herd that consents to be surveilled, spied, undermined and oppressed. That accepts to be controlled, and subjugated.

That tolerates being treated like an “ATM machine” serving the machinery of a parasitic societal system.

Fear of punishment keeps many silent, obedient, and submissive to the cultural, ideological, and moral hypocrisy imposed by those who claim and are perceived as an authority.

And when anyone dares to question or challenge the hollow hierarchical framework, the puppet masters unleash their loyal “minions”, obedient servants.

Censoring. Silencing. Suppressing. Segregating. Punishing those who refuse to kneel to the distorted, corrupt, hierarchical, fear-based status quo.

Within this spiritually desolated and indoctrinated societal landscape, individuals are coerced physically, emotionally, and psychologically to self-abandon and self-betray by those who serve the interests of the hollow, soulless, corrupt parasitic system.

These “minions” believe that aligning themselves with deception, dishonesty, fear, scarcity, greed, conflict, division, and corruption will grant them protection and rewards.

They believe loyalty to the system will grant them a rank. A title. Money. Land. A seat near the top of the Ponzi fraudulent and corrupt status quo hierarchical oligarchical pyramid.

They assume that by undermining others and choosing sides, their puppet masters will protect them when circumstances become difficult. Out of pride and spiritual ignorance, they convince themselves that they deserve a place among the powerful.

Some even believe that divine justice will overlook their actions, but amidst all the pride, deception, and spiritual ignorance, one truth remains unavoidable.

No one is exempt from reaping what they sow.

What we cultivate within ourselves inevitably returns to us through the divine order of karma.

Excuses cannot erase it. Victimhood cannot bypass it. Pride cannot escape it.

In the human journey, we possess free will, the power of choice in every moment. The choice to transcend conditioning.

The choice to release attachments to destructive ideologies, dogmas, identities, propaganda and patterns of behavior rooted in an intent to harm.

The choice to cultivate self-regulation and take full accountability for our inner state rather than projecting our turmoil onto others.

A parasitic, narcissistic, fear-based mongering society clings to primitive and archaic ways of resolving conflict, and differences, operating through fear, deception, ignorance, dominance, manipulation, speculation, scams and exploitation.

The “monkey mind” constantly seeks a scapegoat, advantage, control, and superiority over others.

But until individuals turn inward and confront their own subconscious fears, the fear of insignificance, irrelevance, and unworthiness, humanity will continue to perpetuate suffering by choice through the illusion of separation and superiority.

Allowing fear to taint our hearts is a choice, and every choice carries responsibility and consequences, regardless of how much the ego clings to victimhood, regardless of how fiercely it externalizes its own unresolved chaos.

What we cultivate within ourselves is ultimately mirrored by the universe.

So the question remains: Which energy do you cultivate within?

Perception is the key:

Through perception emerges self-awareness.

Through self-awareness comes self-healing.

Through self-healing comes self-integration.

Through self-integration comes self-regulation.

Through self-regulation comes self-accountability.

Through self-acceptance comes remembrance of the authentic sovereign self.

Life itself is neither easy nor difficult. It simply is. An opportunity for the soul to alchemize fear into wisdom. Illusion into awareness. Separation into unity, wholeness, and oneness.

A divine cycle inviting each being toward self-mastery, evolution, and conscious alignment with the greater whole.

And in the end, every parasitic narcissistic societal system collapses under the weight of its own self-inflicted deception, manipulation, fakeness, the illusion of control, and domination.

Not because it is overthrown by rebellion. Not because it is defeated by wars, but because the truth it tried to bury, deny, and resist continues to live within every soul that refuses to abandon itself.

The puppet masters may control institutions, narratives, resources, and systems of power, but they cannot control the law that governs existence itself.

Every lie sown into the world will demand its harvest. Every act of manipulation, diminishment returns to its source in divine order.

And when enough human beings remember who they truly are, the foundations of fear-based hollow and corrupt hierarchical power structures begin to crumble.

Not through violence. Not through rebellion. But through something far more powerful:

A sovereign soul that refuses to kneel, refuses to abandon and betray its inner authority, self-sufficiency, self-reliance, self-discernment, self-regulation, self-accountability, integrity, self-love, self-knowing, self-awareness, a soul that does not compromise its inner compass trust, and guidance.
