

How Parasitic False Societal Hierarchies Sustain Control Through the Consent of a Docile Herd

by Pedro Lima

In a docile, obedient, compliant, subservient, and submissive societal herd mentality standardized landscape, individuals trust, rely, believe, and depend on perceived curated false hierarchies, curated false authority figures, and curated parasitic systems of control, where a few groups, through the rehearsal of fear-based scarcity and speculative, conniving, performative, self-serving, hollow, corrupt, morally hypocritical ideologies, dogmas, and cultural paradigms rooted in greedy, profit-based, power-hungry domination, distorted and dysfunctional soulless stories, narratives, scenarios, and delusional disseminated propaganda, indoctrination at all levels of a society, keep individuals internally disconnected, comfortable, complacent, agreeable, distracted, and addicted to subjugation, self-victimization, and self-sabotaging petty and bitter self-conditioning stories meant to justify curated, fragmented, survival self-preserving egoic identity performative constructs, attaching themselves to layers of illusion, immersed in chaotic, self-inflicted prideful ignorance, obsessions, resentment, addiction to the surface-level, lacking inner substance, authenticity, and self-sovereignty.

In this hollow, global spiritually impoverished societal paradigm, individuals outsource their inner sovereignty to perceived false hierarchies and false authority figures that dictate, measure, enforce, and demand an individual's subjugation to the parasitic, hollow, narcissistic societal structure and corrupt false hierarchy self-serving agenda frameworks, demanding an individual's focus, attention, believe and consent while being silenced, enforced, coerced, punished, surveilled, and treated like "livestock," reduced to a disposable number when the parasitic, narcissistic, corrupt, soulless, greedy, carefully designed enslaving societal system cannot harvest their life-force, cannot profit, and cannot benefit from an individual's low levels of consciousness chaotic state.

When individuals self-remember and self-reclaim their inner sovereignty, embodying unapologetic, authentic, raw, and truthful self-expression, withdrawing their attention from the parasitic, rehearsed petty "circus" designed to keep them consumed by fear and scarcity mindset attachments, distracted by the so-called "elites" who, through their subservient "puppet masters" and loyal "minions," disseminate, rehearse, and curate performative, deceptive, manipulative hollow scenarios, illusions meant to keep the majority in line, dependent on false hierarchies and false authority figures that, out of spiritual ignorance, and integrity, seek to write the script in others lives, seek to dictate who they are, what they are, and why they must be obedient, compliant, and exploited through labor while creating wealth for petty, fragile, insecure, hollow, soulless beings who connive to perpetuate the illusion of power over others, accumulation of wealth at the cost of others well-being, hoarding resources to benefit from scarcity, perpetuating a moral, deceptive, corrupt, hypocritical false superiority status quo by soulless insecure hollow beings who benefit and profit from the labor of a docile, compliant, and spiritually impoverished society by choice.

A docile herd society that, out of fear of deconstructing egoic, self-victimized identities, indoctrinated curated societal beliefs is terrified of losing access to the narcissistic, parasitic, hollow societal conniving club, fearing not being accepted by others, fearing not being enough, fearing not having enough, consumed by self-conditioning, self-inflicted attachments, obsessions, and addictions to unresolved and unintegrated layers of pain, suffering, trauma, and unworthiness, fearing truth, because it will expose their self-abandonment and self-betrayal narratives, the lack of courage to let go of what binds them to a state of powerlessness, clinging to surface-level societal commodified speculative systems to be provided for, outsourcing and relying on the external world for existence, happiness, and fulfillment rather than cultivating from within self-awareness, self-discernment, self-sufficiency, self-regulation, self-validation, and self-sovereignty, present and embodying their authentic and genuine Soul's sovereign self-expression, stopping the need to justify, self-explain, and perform to please and appease others, and start taking full self-accountability for how they choose to live their lives in alignment and resonance with their inner compass guidance, inner knowing, and inner wisdom, remembering who they truly are beneath all the layers of conditioning and projected parasitic illusion.

A sovereign being does not choose sides, does not follow orders, does not comply, obey, or become subservient, does not defend nor fight for any parasitic, narcissistic, hollow societal system perceived as superior, hollow soulless systems that cultivate and strive for division, deception, manipulation, exploitation, domination and conflict while disguising it as necessary, normal, all in the name of security, justice and order, seeking to justify, legislate, and normalize chaos, narcissistic distortion, and dysfunction while hypocritically labeling it "for the highest good of all."

A sovereign individual does not compromise their integrity, honor, dignity, authenticity, or inner authority to belong or be accepted; they do not bend or fear standing up for their own inner core values, regardless of what anyone has to say about it.

A sovereign individual chooses self-discernment, self-validation, self-sufficiency, self-awareness, self-healing, self-regulation, self-leadership, and self-authority, co-creating with the universe a purposeful, authentic life, being the writer of their own humanness script.

Here is what dismantles everything you were taught to believe: nothing about these societal systems holds power without your agreement to participate in them. Not your obedience, not your fear, not your silence is accidental; it is conditioned, reinforced, and normalized until you mistake it for who you are. But the moment you see it without distortion, without justification, without attachment, without running from it, something irreversible happens.

You stop negotiating your inner truth and inner peace for acceptance. You stop performing for survival. You stop outsourcing your inner authority to anything outside of you, and in that moment, you become incompatible with everything that once required your submission.

Self-sovereignty is not loud, not performative, not reactive; it is the quiet, grounded, unwavering refusal to abandon and betray yourself again, no matter the cost.
