

FOR THE GIRL WHO LET ME IN

A poem on today's typical relationship - by Kshiteej Kabra

I saw a girl, okay -

In Black kurti – blue denims

Ass-tight jeans – she got me craving!

Slim waistline – curves so tight

Walking like – she owns the night!

Soft white skin – like velvet smooth

A touch of silk – with hidden truth!

So, I found this girl, okay -

Wide pretty eyes – with black mascara

Tears in them – not good nazara!

Elegant legs – stride so steady

But inside her – not always ready!

Delicate fingers – nails painted clean,

But on her wrists – secrets unseen!

And its - this same girl, okay -

Red lips smiling – like fire glowing,
But deep inside – her pain is showing!

Hair all wavy – flowing in the breeze,
But her heart's locked – can't find the keys!

Voice like honey – sweet but shaking,
Hides her sorrow – while still breaking!

Strong on surface – fearless and bold,
But she's fighting – a story untold!

Quick with laughter – hides her fears,
Brave on outside – fighting tears!

Sharp with words – fierce and bright,
But in her heart – she's losing the fight!

Strong and stubborn – never backs down,
But deep inside – she's the one to drown!

So, now you know the girl, right?

=====

You know that girl, right?

She let me in – past all her walls,
I wanna be the one – she always calls!

She shares her secrets – whispers them low,
In my trust – I've seen her grow!

Her guard is down – she speaks so free,
Now I can feel – what she's kept from me!

I know her pain – the silent cries,
But I'm the one – she lets inside!

=====

So for this girl, okay –

I want to love her – through every tear,

Hold her close – and calm her fear!

I see her scars – and the weight she bears,

But I'll be the one – who always cares!

Her battles and burdens – I'll make them mine

Help her heal – and let her shine!

With me by her side – she'll rise above,

I'll stay with her – give her my love!

=====

And you know what, now “this” girl is “my” girl!

There’s my girl, okay –

She sees my love – she knows it’s real,

In my arms – she’s learned to heal!

She’s opened up – her heart to me,

Now she’s strong and she’s set free!

She loves me back – no fear, no doubt

Together we’ve – figured it out!

We’ve found our peace – in each other’s light,

And now we’re happy – everything feels right!

So, finally – for you, my girl, alright -

We're growing strong – in every way,

Side by side – we face each day!

In life, in love – we rise and shine,

Together forever – your hand in mine!

So, she's my girl, okay –

I move in close – to touch her – sweet,

Her body whispers – my heart beats!

With playful smile – she pulls me near,

kisses me deep – no doubts, no fear!

So, to conclude – she's my girl, okay –

And I love her - till the end,

Not only in poems, but in life,

I want with her – my happy end!

That's me, KRK, signing off!