

WHAT ARE CHAKRAS?

Chakras are energy centers that exist in every human body. There are seven chakras that align with areas of the physical body and are associated with color.

Chakra bracelets align the crystals or stones by color with one or more chakras. Each crystal has its own unique energy properties and have been used by various cultures for thousands of years. These properties can relate to mental, emotional and physical healing as well as protection, wealth, luck and happiness.

You can choose to make a chakra or healing bracelet based on the properties specific for you or someone close to you. Materials will be provided with a list of each crystal along with its related chakra and healing properties.
