

THE PASSOVER KIDDIE VERSION

Long ago, in Egypt a mean ruler, afraid that, someday the Israelites would rise up and fight against him and his kingdom. He decided that the Israelites should all become slaves. He was so afraid of the growing numbers of the Israelites that he ordered all Israelite baby boys be killed.

But Moses' mother gave his older sister Miriam strict instructions to put baby Moses an Israelite baby boy in a basket on the Nile river to save him from this fate. Miriam does as she is told and watches as the basket goes down the river. She sees when Pharaoh's daughter finds baby Moses and Pharaoh's daughter instantly loves him and takes him to the palace to be raised as her son.

That meanie Pharaoh had the Israelites as slaves. Israelites are The Most High's chosen people, his favorite people on the whole face of the earth. They were forced into hard bondage. Working hard every day, with no rest, from morning to night. Hammering, digging, carrying bricks to build cities and pyramids.

The Israelites are worn out from all the hard work they have been doing day in and day out, they are hungry and cannot do anything they would like to do. They are in pain and cry out to the Most High for help. The Most High hears their cries and chooses Moses to lead them out of bondage.

Moses is now all grown up and goes out into the field and sees an Egyptian taskmaster beating an Israelite slave. Moses tries to stop the task master and ends up killing the Egyptian. He knew he would be in trouble and was forced to flee from Egypt. He ends up in a wilderness and there he became a shepherd, found a wife and had children.

Moses is herding sheep when he sees a bush that was on fire but did not burn up. He goes closer to see and an angel of The Most High tells him to go to Pharaoh with his brother Aaron and tell Pharaoh to let The Most High's people the Israelites go.

Moses and Aaron go to Pharaoh and tell him as the Most High commanded them, that he should let his people go. But Pharaoh is very evil and The Most High hardened Pharaoh's heart and he replied never, I will never let my slaves go.

The Most High because of his stubbornness decided to bring ten horrible plagues on the Egyptians that will surely bring Pharaoh to his knees.

The Ten Plagues of Egypt

The Egyptians worshipped a number of gods in Egypt and The Most High wanted everyone to know that the gods of Egypt were nothing when compared to him.

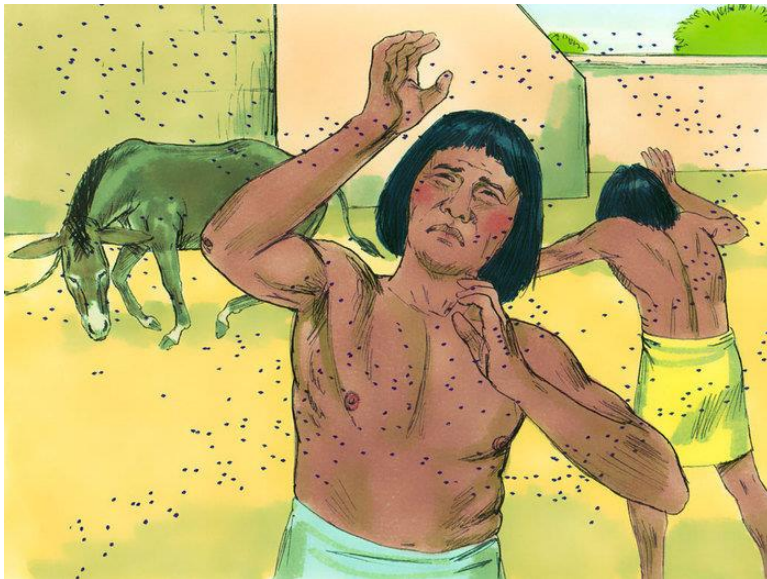

Now these are the Plagues The Most High placed on Egypt. The first plague turned the water in Egypt into blood. The Pharaoh's magicians could not turn the blood back to water no matter how hard they tried. And so the first of Egypt's god Sobek was put to open shame.

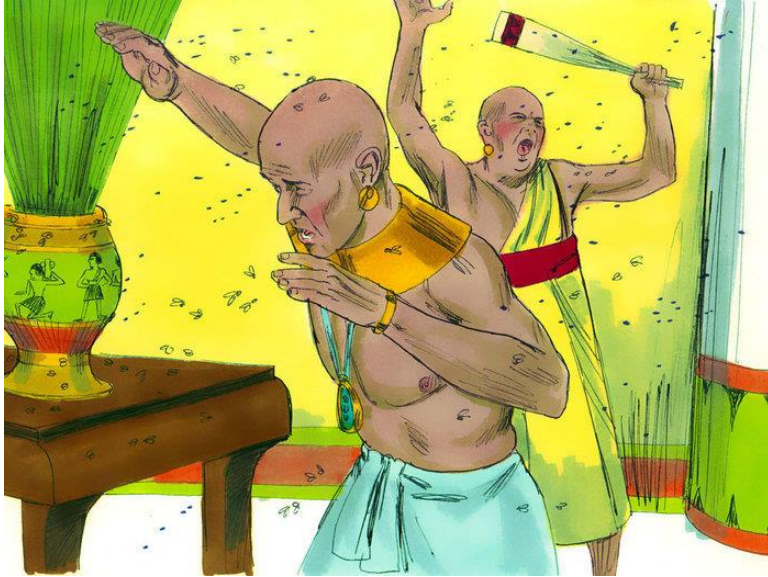

The second plague unleashed was frogs everywhere. The frog goddess was called Heqet.

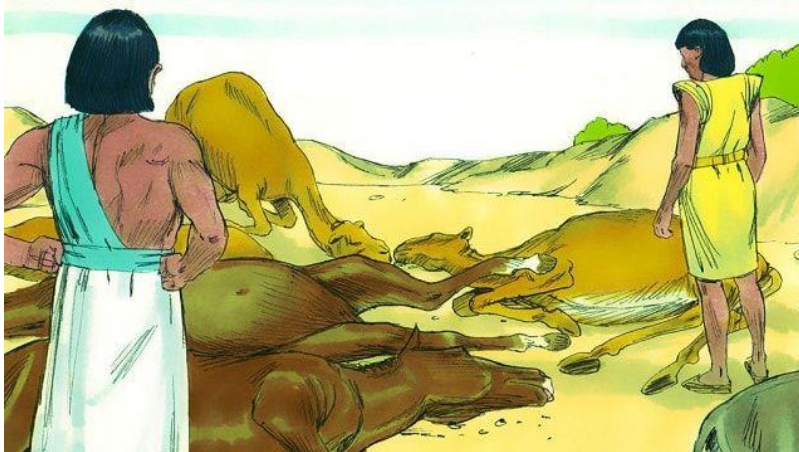

The third plague was of lice. The lice god was called Geb.

The fourth plague was of flies. The god of flies was called Khepri.

The fifth plague was a plague on the livestock, they were stricken with diseases. The god of livestock was called Hathor.

The sixth plague was of boils. Appearing everywhere on their skin. The goddess of medicine was called Isis.

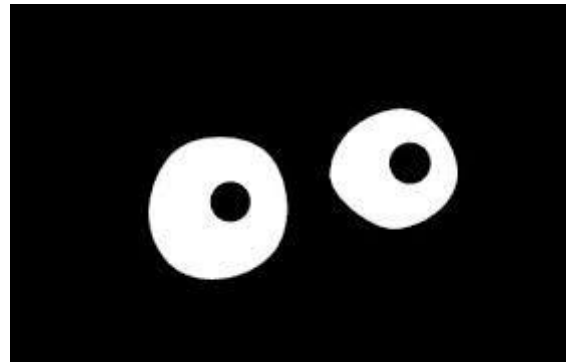

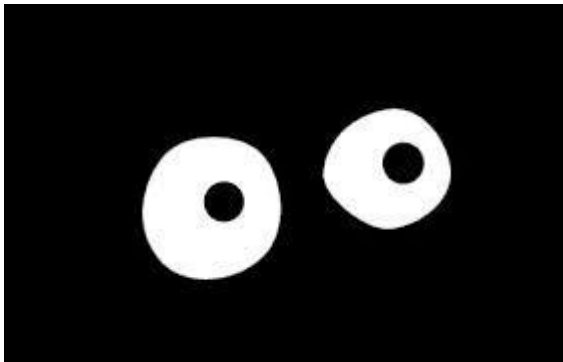

The seventh plague was of fiery hail. The goddess of the sky was called Nut.

The eighth plague was locusts, they devoured the crops of the Egyptians. The god of storms and disorder was called Seth.

The ninth plague was a darkness that could be felt and seemed unending. No sun, not seeing anything, feeling and seeing things touching you, apparitions which are like ghosts appeared unto them. Even when their back was against the wall they still felt things touching them. The sun god was called Ra.

For the tenth plague, Israel sacrificed a lamb of the first year as instructed by The Most High and pasted the blood on their doorposts and upper lintels of their doors. This was done so that when the death angel came he would pass over their homes and all of Israel would not be affected. It was not until after the last plague which was death of the firstborn Egyptian males that Pharaoh let the Israelites go. The last plague was directed at Pharaoh as he was worshipped by the people of Egypt.

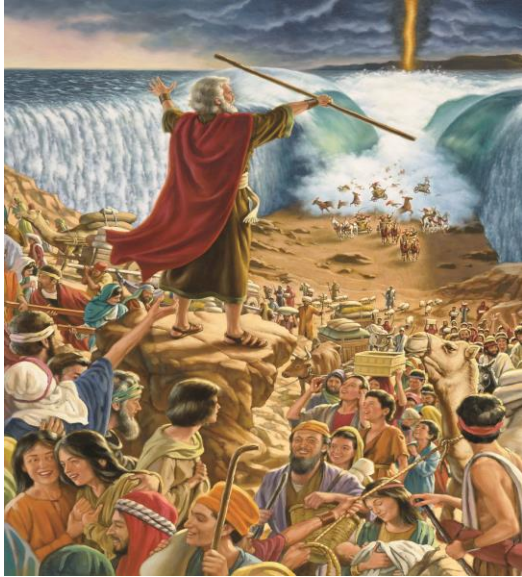

On hearing the news of their release the Israelites hurried to pack their things to flee Egypt. They moved with such haste that the bread being baked had no time to rise.

While fleeing to safety the Israelites heard Pharaoh and his army chasing after them. Pharaoh has changed his mind yet again and did not want to lose his slaves. Israel was now at the sea and trapped. The Most High through Moses commands the sea and it parts and the Israelites walked across two giant walls of water. Pharaoh and his men followed after them and the path closed up killing Pharaoh and his men.

Passover is the remembrance of our deliverance by the Most High every year out of bondage. And it is a time for us to put away leaven which represents sin from our lives.

Passover commemorates the Exodus from Egypt, which means the departing in large numbers. It details the freedom of the Israelites from bondage or slavery.
