

The Rescue

The sky is on fire. Through the billowing orange smoke I see six figures making their way across the face of the mountain. They stop and spell out H-E-L-P with their bodies.

I set out to rescue them but soon turn back. There is nothing I can do. Boiling rain scalds my skin. The air has turned to steam.

How can I save others if I cannot even save myself?