The Mind-Body Connection

A Holistic View of Complete Health

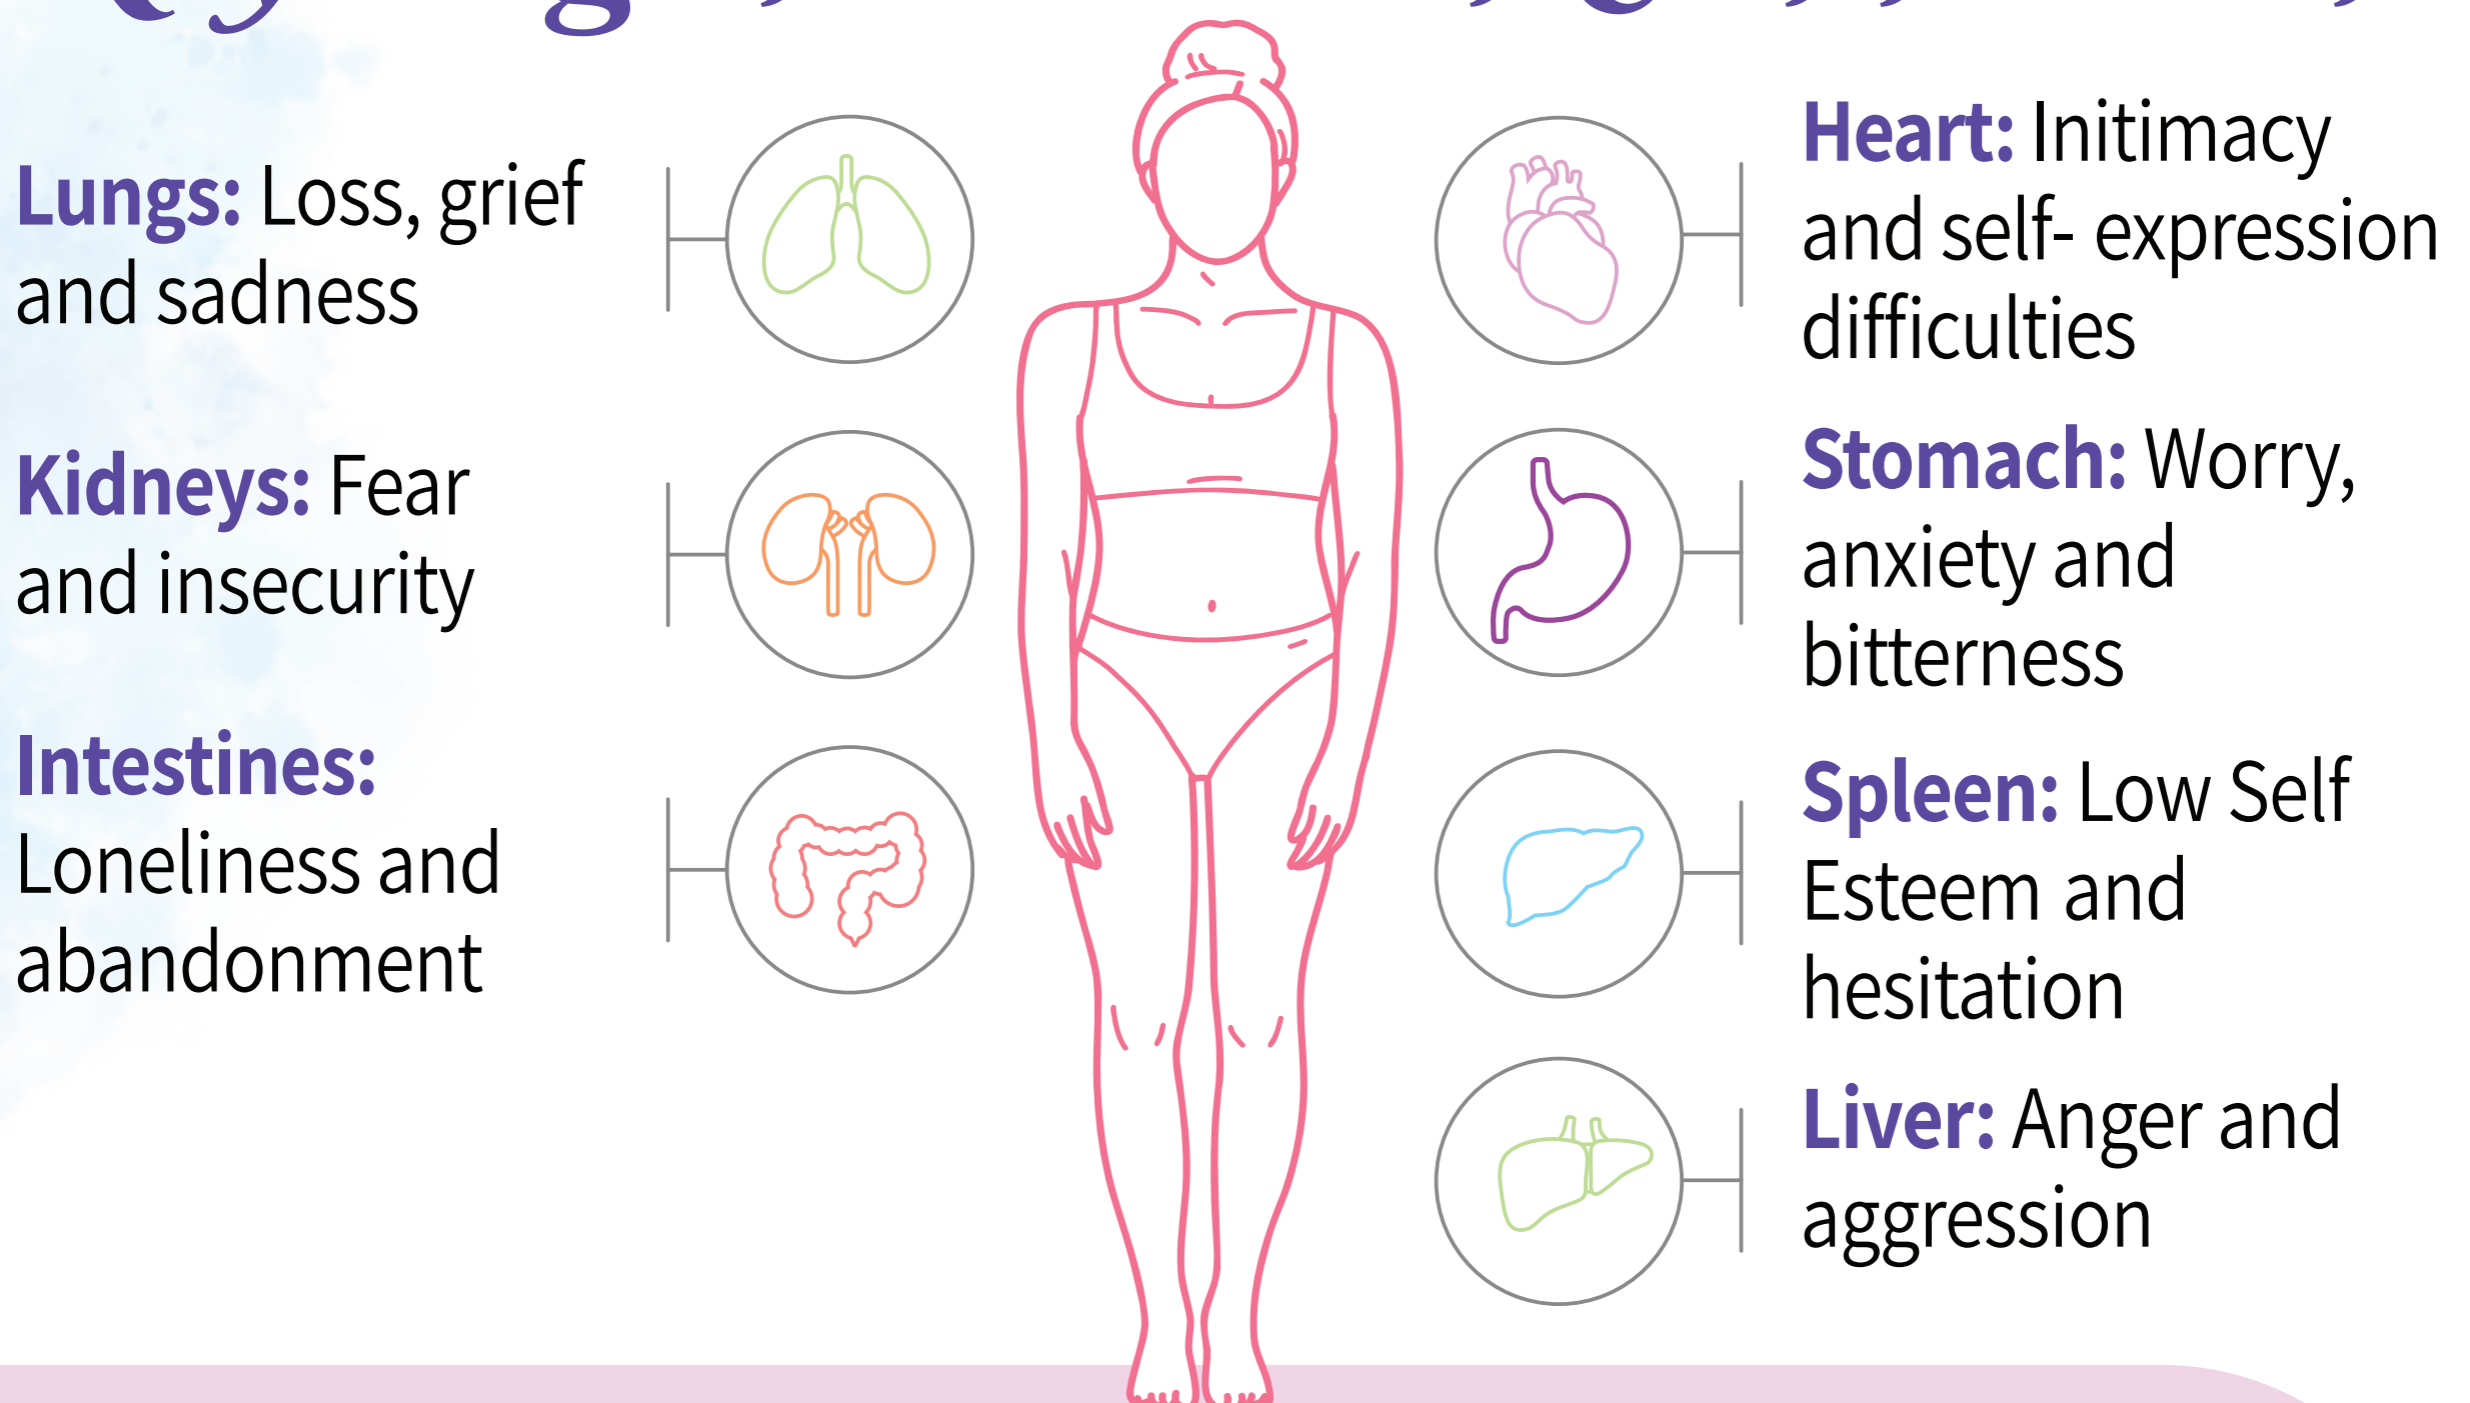

Holistic medicine addresses the deep connection between body and mind. Every physical symptom links to an emotional root, and each body organ connects to specific mental states. For example, a headache may stem from stomach issues, representing emotions like worry and anxiety.

The treatment system I developed offers a comprehensive solution integrating all human aspects.

The method, originally developed for allergies, identifies how emotional traumas can manifest as physical reactions. Through kinesiology (muscle resistance testing), the practitioner diagnoses and treats the emotional, physical, energetic, and mental roots.

The method's main advantage is its ability to identify precise connections between emotional events and additional combinations to physical responses. For instance, a traumatic experience while eating certain food may create future allergic reactions to that food. The treatment allows the body to reprogram itself and completely heal that connection, preventing harmful reactions and illness in the future.

Key Organ-Emotion Connections

The method addresses different ailments such as ADHD, ADD and Chronic Diseases. Daphna's expertise in Kinesiology, with an Holistic approach, allows the body and mind to find the natural balance between them, creating an overall Well Being and Healing.
